The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday August 1, to Tuesday August 4, 1761.

Whitehall, August 4, 1761.

LATE last Night the Directors of the East India Company received Dispatches over Land, from the President and Council of Bombay, giving an Account of the Surrender of Mihie on the 10th Day of February last, with all its Dependencies, on the Coast of Malabar, by M. Louet, Commander in Chief of the French Garrison of that Place, to Thomas Hodges, Esq; Commander at Tellicherry, and to Hector Munro, Esq; Commander of the King's and Company's Troops on that Expedition.

Dusseldorp, July 26. Prince Soubize's Army, for Want of Provisions, has been obliged to retire to Menden on the Roer, that he may be nearer his Magazines. M. de Voyer has been detached with Twenty-six Battalions, and a proportionable Number of Squadrons, to keep open the Communication with this Town and Cologne.

Cologne, July 27. The French, to conceal the Loss they sustained in the late Battle, bring in their wounded Officers as well as Soldiers in the Night. However, we know the Number of the former brought into our Hospitals exceed Two Hundred; of the latter there are near Three Thousand.

Hague, July 31. Letters from the Army, of the 28th past, say, that M. de Soubize, after having sent a great Reinforcement to Marshal Broglio, had passed the Roer, and was retired into the Mountains. Marshal Broglio had assembled all his Troops at Paderborn; and Prince Ferdinand was in full March after him. Colonel Freytag had destroyed 50 Boats laden with Ammunition and Corn, and burnt the French Magazines on the Fuld, and the Werra. He did not lose a single Man in that Expedition.

The last Letters from Silesia are of the 18th, when the Austrians and Russians had not been able to effectuate their Junction; and that Part of the Prussian Army, which was placed on the Right and Left of the Oder, near Breslau, continued to occupy the Posts assigned to them. The Van-Guard of the Russian Army was advanced as far as Wartenberg. The King of Prussia was at Pultzen.

The Russian Corps under M. Romanzow, designed to attack Colberg, had not begun its Operations the 12th of last Month. The Swedes were in Motion, and were said to have actually passed the Peyne. Every Thing was quiet in Saxony. Prince Henry kept his Position at Schlettau; and Marshal Daun, and the Army of the Empire, had not yet begun to move.

St. James's, August 4.
